President Bernard Gerbaka and Executive Director Pragathi Tummala

ISPCAN is the only global professional organization with multiple disciplines working in the field of child abuse and neglect, coming together in a shared learning network of support. We are most represented by pediatricians, social workers, psychologists, lawyers, policy makers, mental health professionals, governmental agencies, and public health professionals. Both in research and practice, ISPCAN members are an elite group of trailblazers in their respective countries united by a shared mission to protect children’s rights. While we have a strong foundation of members, in late 2017-early 2018 we began looking closer at our membership development and professional engagement. With over iCast1000 members in more than 80 countries, we have pushed to improve our outreach and connections, after a new strategic plan started in 2016 in Sion, Switzerland, to take a broader look at what we do well, where we have opportunities for growth, and how we can address the challenges on child protection. A new website emerged, with updated technology, better customer service, staffing and program structures – all with a mindfulness to take our membership connectivity, consultation availability, conference organizing and training services to a more responsive platform. ISPCAN Council and staff have formulated new and interesting ways to bring more value to our members. We have stretched to engage members with more offerings this year such as the monthly journal club, our member spotlight, and ambassador programs. We have successfully instituted now 5 mini conference trainings in South Africa, India, Pakistan, UK, and Moldova at low cost on specific topics planned for a small group that is coordinated with our member in those regions. CAN curricula on various topics was updated and is now available for all disciplines on our website to provide basics on sexual abuse, neglect, physical & emotional abuse and child death review. The iCast data tools have been digitized and can be used now on an Ipad or phone app using the CDC Epi-Info as the basic software on which you can layer and customize the questionnaire as needed.

Alone we are not able to accomplish as much as when we join hands with our sister agencies and we have made stronger and deeper connections with our country partners to reinvigorate these regional networks, and we are always looking for how we can support and expand the Global Partnership to End violence and the WHO INSPIRE Strategy. Along with the International Pediatric Association and the International Society for Social Pediatrics, we have launched joint statements speaking out against violence on children and also against separation of children from parents during displacement, and consequently collaborated on relevant workshops in our conferences. ISPCAN works to increase the outreach, empower the impact, broaden the diversity of services to children and widen the breadth of potential interventions. We have reached out to country leaders and also to faith leaders to explore better ways to protect children from child abuse and neglect, especially in dramatic emergent situations. We recognize that engaging with community-based organizations highlights recognized yet underutilized groups that can provide support to children, and help to influence behavioral changes in communities through education and social support.

ISPCAN 2017 European Regional conference was held in the Hague where we went paperless and introduced a conference app to bring more value and reengage with membership, when interest is present but physical meeting is difficult, to enhance interaction with councilors within side events and build partnerships and share opportunities. ISPCAN is aware that professional relationships are the network that sustains our professionals out of isolation and into supportive platforms, especially in the most challenging circumstances around the globe. In the 5th Arab Regional conference held in Dubai in 2017, we experienced a tremendous political will moving through the UAE and other Arab states, demonstrated by the attendance of many non-traditional groups, including law enforcement, ministries and policy makers. With the upcoming 2018 Prague Congress, ISPCAN instituted a new concept of Core Courses to earn CEU’s during conferences and gain expertise and training skills in basic and advanced topics that would help members further their careers without significant additional charges.

There is always more to be done, and while we take pride in the strides we have made, we know we have a long way to go to reach our vision of a world free from violence, child abuse and neglect. We thank our members, our funders and our partners for all they do to raise the bar on treatment, research, policy and prevention. Together we will move one step closer to a world free from violence.

Warmly,

President Bernard Gerbaka
Executive Director Pragathi Tummala
In October 1975, Dr. C. Henry Kempe and eighteen other professionals met in Bellagio, Italy and formed an international working group focused on the problem of child abuse. The group consisted of child psychiatrists, a surgeon, pediatricians, psychologists, criminologists, social workers and specialists in juvenile law. This meeting created the synergy to hold the first international conference on child abuse and neglect, which took place in 1976. It also served as the catalyst for the formation of the International Society for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (ISPCAN) in 1977 and the creation of Child Abuse and Neglect: The International Journal, which has since become a highly respected source of information with a global readership. The field of child abuse and neglect has changed and evolved considerably since that first meeting in 1975, when Henry Kempe and colleagues explored the possibilities for an international, multidisciplinary membership organization.
The ISPCAN community includes 1,027 ISPCAN members in 87 countries. 814 of those members are from high income countries (79%) and 213 are from low/middle-income countries (21%). Membership rates have remained consistent since mid-2017. Our members come from a variety of disciplines, including: medicine, education, psychology, social work, education, government, nursing, and psychiatry.
INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Child Abuse & Neglect: The International Journal, rated #1 on Google Scholar for Social Work, is a monthly peer-reviewed journal of multidisciplinary, international information on all aspects of child abuse and neglect. Members receive a free subscription, including online access to current and archived issues going back to 1977. Notably, the Journal has gone through a recent update to be more valuable to readers, including the addition of more articles and special issues, while maintaining high-quality content. The Journal is downloaded about a million times annually.

GLOBAL CHILD ABUSE DATA

The highly-regarded World Perspectives on Child Abuse has been published every two years since 1982. In 2018, the 13th edition’s publication will coincide with the 22nd International Congress, held in Prague September 2-5. More comprehensive than ever, the this edition includes data on 88 countries across all world regions (including 14 that provided data in 2016) as well as papers that highlight corporal punishment in 36 countries and case studies of innovative interventions to improve child protection in three countries. Appendices include country income levels, survey respondents, indicator data, the survey itself, and a list of key national and international agencies involved in addressing child abuse and neglect.

ICAST FOR MOBILE DEVICES

ISPCAN’s Child Abuse Screening Tools (ICAST) are now available for use on iPhones or tablets, making data collection and analysis easier for CAN professionals wherever they are working. Using EPI Info, a free app offered by the Centers for Disease Control, investigators can build forms and analyze data in multiple languages. A new ICAST manual explains the data entry system and directs users to guides on how to conduct analyses of their data.
Forty years after the initial meeting of the international working group that led to the founding of ISPCAN, our Council decided to organize a meeting to take stock of its history and achievements, review the global landscape and the role of the organization in a changing world, and set a strategy for the future.

This Summit was held in Sion, Switzerland, in May 2016 with 60 participants, including current and past councilors and presidents, and major partners. The Summit was conducted in the form of a facilitated workshop; it focused on the ongoing need to prevent and address violence against children and how ISPCAN should align its future work, in collaboration with the global child protection sector. The Summit meeting made recommendations to the ISPCAN Council and Executive Director about ISPCAN’s future strategic directions.

Each year, at our annual council meeting, we review our progress, and make adjustments to our program activities always with the goal of improving efficiencies, quality of products & services, and return on investment. In The Hague annual council meeting, each committee has this responsibility.

We started offering a monthly Journal Club webinar, which provides members the opportunity to listen in on a discussion about a select research article on a specific CAN topic. Due to high interest, we are considering creating a companion series focused on articles from Child Abuse & Neglect: The International Journal, including inviting authors to present their own work.
BOLD NEW DIRECTIONS

WORKING GROUPS
At each ISPCAN conference and congress, our Working Groups bring together an international group of professionals from multiple disciplines to share expertise, knowledge, and experiences on two critical aspects of child abuse prevention and treatment. The Data Collection on Child Maltreatment Working Group identifies and explores key methodological approaches, and findings, and trends while also developing a network of professional researchers involved in systematic national data collection programs. The Child Death Review Working Group offers the opportunity to connect and collaborate with others interested in studying child death and near-fatal maltreatment from the perspectives of policy, practice, and research.

YOUTH ADVISORY COUNCIL
The Council comprises students, young professionals, and youth devoted to helping guide the future of ISPCAN. 2016 marked the start of our first ever Young People’s Advisory Council. ISPCAN is focused on building resources, finding ways to engage youth between conference youth forums, and developing this program.

ONLINE RESOURCES & TOOLS
We have expanded our collection of online Resources and Tools aimed at helping our members do their work better. New resources include:

Multidisciplinary Training Materials—Offered in six languages, these materials provide a comprehensive knowledge base for trainers and participants who are responsible for developing, evaluating, and/or delivering training on child abuse and neglect.

Child Maltreatment Evaluation & Treatment Curriculum—These 10 modules provide an in-depth introduction to skills that medical professionals need in order to provide diagnosis, medical treatment, and advocacy of children who have been abused and neglected.

E-courses—Developed in coordination with Augeo Academy, these 11 e-Learning Courses are presented by leading experts in the field and cover topics ranging from Communicating about Violence to Multidisciplinary Teams in the Field of Child Abuse and Neglect.
MINI CONFERENCES

ISPCAN NOW OFFERS MEMBERS THE OPPORTUNITY TO BRING A TRAINING ON A SPECIFIC TOPIC FOR 50-100 PEOPLE TO THEIR LOCATION. MEMBERS CAN SIMPLY FILL OUT AN ELECTRONIC EXPRESSION OF INTEREST FORM ON OUR WEBSITE, AND WE START WORKING ON A PLAN FOR THE EVENT. HERE ARE THREE SUCCESSFUL MINI CONFERENCES WE HAVE CO-HOSTED IN 2017 AND 2018.

Durban, South Africa—June 2017

CHILD TRAUMA CONFERENCE: LITTLE VOICES COUNT

ISPCAN collaborated with Jelly Beanz, a nonprofit organization in South Africa that offers a variety of support services to children and families who have experienced trauma, abuse, and neglect, to offer this multi-sectoral pre-conference to the South Africa AIDS Conference. ISPCAN Councilor and former Past President Joan van Niekerk was one of several distinguished speakers who focused on topics related to the intersection between HIV/AIDS and child abuse and neglect.

Vadodara, Gujarat, India—July 2017

5TH NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF ICANCL GROUP (CANCLCON 2017)

ISPCAN lent its support to the Academy of Pediatrics, Vadodara Gujarat, the Indian Child Abuse Neglect Child Labour (ICANCL) group, and the Indian Academy of Pediatrics for CANCLCON 2017. With the theme, “Child Sexual Abuse: Prevention & Response,” the principle aim of the conference was to raise awareness and sensitize and train all professionals on how to identify, address, treat and manage Child Sexual Abuse with a multidisciplinary approach.

Lahore, Pakistan—November 2017

1ST SOUTH ASIA REGIONAL CONFERENCE ON CHILD RIGHTS AND 12TH NATIONAL CHILD RIGHTS CONFERENCE OF THE PAKISTAN PEDIATRIC ASSOCIATION

This event, jointly organized by Child Rights Department, University of Lahore (CRD-UOL), Protection and Help of Children Against Abuse and Neglect (PAHCHAAN) Child Rights Committee, Pakistan Pediatric Association (CRC-PPA), Pakistan Pediatric Association Punjab (PPA PB), and South Asian Association for Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (SAPCAN) in collaboration with ISPCAN, brought together more than 1,000 delegates to focus on child rights. Leaders reaffirmed their commitment to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child and its Sustainable Development Goals and Agenda 2030 through the Lahore Declaration on Child Rights 2017.
Powerful New Partnerships

Targets to end violence against children are meaningless unless they are matched by a strong commitment to action. We have a legal and moral obligation to act, and a growing body of evidence from around the world that shows us how we can make societies safer for children. With implementation of the right laws, systems, policies and investments, as well as adequate monitoring and evaluation, along with robust public education and campaigning, we can achieve significant, sustained and measurable reductions in violence, while doing more to respond to the needs of child victims.

ISPCAN continues to form historic agreements between allies in the fight against child abuse and neglect. Our councilors signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with the International Pediatric Association (IPA), and the International Society for Social Pediatrics, committing to work together for promoting rights of the child. Similar relationships have been formed with ECPAT, World Health Organization and our country partners.

This is why ISPCAN has partnered with End Violence Against Children for “Agenda 2030” which calls for all countries and all stakeholders to come together in a collaborative partnership to deliver sustainable development to all, and especially to the poorest and most vulnerable. The Partnership is all about doing things that will have a meaningful impact. By bringing together governments, United Nations agencies, international organizations, and civil societies we can accomplish more together.
ISPCAN brings awareness, unity, and value to its events. A new survey following our recent congress shows 94% of participants found it to be a valuable experience.

15TH EUROPEAN REGIONAL CONFERENCE

ISPCAN welcomed more than 500 child maltreatment professionals from Europe and beyond to The Hague to connect and broaden their knowledge of multidisciplinary, inter-agency approaches to the prevention and treatment of child abuse and neglect. The scientific program included more than 70 sessions and keynote presentations categorized by the following themes: Child Physical and Emotional Abuse; Child Protection Systems; Child Sexual Abuse; Child Trafficking; Domestic Violence; Emerging Issues; Multidisciplinary Inter-agency Approaches; Refugee Children; Training Professionals; and Voice of the Child.

5TH ARAB REGIONAL CONFERENCE

ISPCAN, the Arab Society for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect, and the Dubai Foundation for Women and Children co-organized the 5th Arab Regional Conference, with the theme, “From Legislation to Implementation.” As many countries in this region are in the process of establishing and strengthening structured national child protection systems, this timely conference focused on the latest scientific advances and sharing best practices and multi-disciplinary approaches to the prevention and response to all forms of violence against children. A large contingent of local, regional, and international delegates attended, including representatives from WHO, UNICEF, and the UAE government including the Ministers of Education and Health.

ISPCAN envisions a world where all boys and girls grow up free from violence. That is why ISPCAN is proud to be part of the Global Partnership to End Violence and the Violence Prevention Alliance. Together with the World Health Organization and UNICEF, we are working to end abuse, exploitation, trafficking, and all forms of violence and torture against children. The Global Partnership to End Violence Against Children offers an opportunity for governments, United Nations agencies, international organizations, civil society, including faith groups, the private sector, philanthropic foundations, researchers and academics, and children themselves, to work together – with a greater sense of urgency, passion and commitment – to prevent and respond to violence against children.

The World Health Organization (WHO) initiated preparation of the INSPIRE package, in collaboration with the United States Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), End Violence Against Children: The Global Partnership, the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), the President’s Emergency Program for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR), Together for Girls, the United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF), United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), United States Agency for International Development (USAID), and the World Bank (agencies with a long history of galvanizing a consistent, evidence-based approach to preventing violence against children).

ISPCAN receives revenues from a variety of sources, including membership dues, grants, publications, international conferences, trainings, and in-kind donations. These revenues have provided the resources necessary to deliver direct services to our members, support for member-initiated projects covering specific topics or regions, and provide additional services and support to child maltreatment professionals who are not yet members.

Revenues in 2017 amounted to $943,898, which represents an increase from 2016, primarily as a result of a successful 2017 Congress which is hosted every other year. Membership revenues were slightly lower this year; member numbers are expected to remain steady or increase in the coming years. Membership expenses remain low overall, but increased slightly over prior year levels.

Expenses also increased during 2017; however, the increase over the prior year was due entirely to the increases in spending related program activities, and in particular the hosting of the Congress. In the area of operational support, expenses were reduced by approximately 45% compared to 2016 as cost savings from a prior year office move and staff restructuring were fully realized. Expenses for operational support (including allocated fundraising costs) amounted to 11% of our total expenses.

These financial data do not capture the total value of our programs and services. Thanks to the significant contributions of our volunteers and Country Partners, we are able to offer our members more comprehensive support than we would otherwise.

ISPCAN is a not-for-profit, tax-exempt organization as designated by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service under 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.
